

Female Leaders in Architecture And Design Give Their Picks From Design Miami/Basel 2018

Bianca Salonga, CONTRIBUTOR
I write about style, design and beauty FULL BIO ▾

Opinions expressed by Forbes Contributors are their own.

Photo courtesy of Design Miami/Basel

"In the midst of a revival of everything '80s—from Memphis to conspicuous consumption—-[+]

Design Miami/Basel 2018, which opened today, once again brought together some of the world's most influential designers, collectors, curators, critics and opinion makers. Each exhibition at Design Miami does not only aim to feature moving, thought-provoking and clever design propositions. It also means to create a thriving venue for an open conversation on design culture and commerce.

An exchange of ideas is taking place at this year's event between some of the most influential female figures in the realms of architecture and design. In sharing their top picks from this year's exhibition, they also offer valuable insight on direction of design and how this correlates to lifestyle evolutions. Meet the women at DesignMiami/Basel 2018.

DEBORAH BERKE is a trailblazer in establishing the position of women in the field of architecture. In 2013, she was awarded the Berkeley Rupp prize, a distinction given to "a distinguished practitioner or academic who has made a significant contribution to promoting the advancement of women in the field of architecture, and whose work emphasizes a commitment to sustainability and the community." Berke also helms the New York-based architecture firm, Deborah Berke Partners and heads that School of Architecture at Yale University.

Photo courtesy of Winnie Au
Deborah Berke

CEILING LAMP MOD 2045 by Studio BBPR. “Studio BBPR’s ceiling lamp is just spectacular—it would look great in a lobby or a large foyer.”

Photo courtesy of Studio BBPR

Ceiling Lamp Mod 2045 by Studio BBPR